

Kari Fisher Culberson is a textile designer & sewist specializing in contemporary hand-blocked textiles. She has a master's in interior design from Florida State University. Her trio of design skills inspires her to create beautiful, well-made and functional goods for the home. Kari's designs are most often inspired by her love of design history and traditional printing methods like block printing. She designs each pattern thoughtfully and carves each initial block by hand from her home studio in Decatur, GA.
